

DOCTORAL COLLEGE

CITIZEN SCIENCE

HOSTING CONDITIONS

The Citizen Science Doctoral College – Ceied is a forum for discussion and training that brings together doctoral candidates in Education and Sociomuseology, supervisors and researchers, around joint and interdisciplinary activities to support thesis research work. Being part of the Doctoral College gives you access to integration and immersion in a research environment through Ceied structures.

RELECO(s)

You have the opportunity to develop your PhD research project within one of our Research and Learning Communities (ReLeCo). The ReLeCo are organised around areas of expertise and research interests, emphasising such activities as R&D, scientific publishing and support to researchers in training.

CEIED JUNIOR

You can be a tutor at Ceied junior and support the promotion of a research culture. In doing so, you'll also be developing your knowledge transfer skills. Ceied Junior is a platform for the development of research skills, stimulating critical thinking and the production of reflective knowledge for undergraduate students.

PUBLIC SCIENCE FORUM

You can collaborate with the public science forum and learn about Ceied research initiatives, find out more about their findings and archives, and organize events. The Public Science Forum strives to improve a vision of science and universities in interaction with society by strengthening collaborations and actions in the field of public science.

EUROPEAN UNIVERSITY ASSOCIATION

You are part of a wider network, since Ceied is a member of the Council for Doctoral Education in the EUA. The Doctoral College is listed as a good practice in the scope of Learning to Empower Students.

CITIZEN SCIENCE FOR BETTER CITIZENS

Citizen Science – reflects one of the links between the Ceied PhD Programs: Education and Sociomuseology, which, with their specific objectives and programs, have in common the realization and defense of a public science that articulates research with the intervention in social, economic, educational and cultural reality.

MOBILITY

With the collaboration of the University's Department for Internationalisation, you may have mobility support to deepen your knowledge and experience by working with renewed experts in several thematic fields around the world through our research networks.

YOUR VOICE IS IMPORTANT

At the Doctoral College we promote an active participation in which we value your ideas and personal experience. It is the doctoral candidates who define the themes of the workshops according to their interests and career plans. Also, doctoral candidates participate actively in the organisation of the annual researcher's meeting, creating a co-participatory atmosphere between seniors, juniors and doctoral candidates.

FIGHTING ACADEMIC ISOLATION

In the Doctoral College we promote debates and support throughout the academic process, both among peers and through tutors, avoiding academic isolation and increasing the success rate of concluded theses.

FINANCIAL SUPPORT

All doctoral candidates who are also members of the Ceied research team have a plafond available to support their participation in international events and publication in indexed journals.

AGENDA FOR THEMATIC SKILLS - WORKSHOPS

The Workshops have various guest speakers and cover a wide range of topics, such as: Scientific Writing or Ethics and Academic Integrity.
